

Bobbie's Rule:

“Keep the gun pointed in a safe direction at all times” was coined “Bobbie’s Rule” in honor of a SFWA student who was shot in the head because someone did not adhere to the most important safety rule of all. You see, if all other safety rules are broken, while still “keeping the gun pointed in a safe direction” . . . no child will lose a parent, no sibling will lose a sister or brother, no parent will lose a child, nor will anyone else lose a friend or loved one.

SFWA promised two young boys, Bobbie’s sons, that we would do our best to assure that their mom did not die in vain, and that hopefully no other children would lose a loved one because someone refused to obey “Bobbie’s Rule”—Keep the gun pointed in a safe direction, at all times!

Special thanks from SFWA, and two young boys, for making it known that the most important rule of all is “Bobbie’s Rule”—and at all times, KEEP firearms pointed in a SAFE direction! It only takes a moment, and it can save a lifetime of despair.
